

Striped Madras Waists
Tailor made, yoke back, detached collar and attached cuffs; regular $1.50 values; special $1.00

Kaufmann & Co.

Social and Personal

MRS. JOHN STOCKTON has returned to her apartment at Gresham Court, after an extended visit to Mrs. Marion Lambert, in St. Louis. Mrs. Lambert was formerly Miss Florence Parker, of this city, and was one of the most popular girls in Richmond society before her marriage some years ago. Mrs. Lambert frequently visits friends in Richmond, and is one of the leading women in society in St. Louis, and entertains a great deal in her home, which is one of the handsomest private residences in that city.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Easter Opening of Novelties

Woman's Exchange
April 4th and 5th

J. B. Mosby & Co.
Women's New Suits at special prices to-day.

Wear a Tag & Set An Example

Jurgens
Special midwinter prices for upholstery parlor suites.

MEN FOR YOUR PROTECTION
Buy Burrojaps Shoe
F. W. DABNEY & CO.,
Third and Broad

HOOSIER
Kitchen Cabinets.
Are highest quality, lowest priced.

RYAN, SMITH & CO.

Livingston
THE CASH SHOE AND TRUNK MAN WHO UNDERSELLS

Sydner & Hundley, Inc.

Engagement Announced.
Mrs. Mary B. Latimer, of Hyattsville, Md., has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Laura Edythe Latimer, to William Carroll Latimer, of Hickory Grove, Prince William county, Va. The wedding will take place about the middle of this month.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Meeting of Colonial Dames.
Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the Virginia and National societies, presided at the meeting of the Richmond Society, Colonial Dames of America, which was held in the parlors of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Moffitt read a charming paper concerning the famous Edenton, N. C. tea party, and Mrs. Andrews, of Washington, who is the house guest of Mrs. Cox, presented to the Virginia Dames an oil portrait of Lord Delaware, the work of herself and her husband, Miss Emma Moore Whitfield read a paper on the monuments in North Carolina that have been erected to historical Colonial personages.

Men's Anchor Brand Shirts
In beautiful neat patterns for spring; the best made shirt sold in Richmond for 50c

Among the Books

"The Colonel's Story."
By Mrs. Roger A. Pryor. The Macmillan Co., of New York. $1.20 net.

Mrs. Pryor's Virginia books have made her name widely known among those who have embodied in literature their recollections of the Old South. Hitherto, however, her writings have been mainly filled with her reminiscences of the Confederate War period, and of the people prominently identified with that period. "The Colonel's Story" possesses the unusual interest of being her first novel with a Virginia setting and characterization, in which she tells of ante-bellum days coming into full play. Pryor, having evidently been familiar personally with the environment, the people and the incidents which she reproduces in her romance.

The Virginia household in which her interest centers is called Berkeley Castle, and its owner, Dr. Charles Berkeley, who, the reader is informed, married lovely Mary Blair. The two daughters of the house are Shirley and Dorothy, who are growing into sweet young womanhood, and Dorothy still a child, but full of charming individuality.

Most intimately related to the family is Berkeley Castle is "The Colonel," for whom the book is entitled, who by name is Colonel James Jones, owner of Catesby, a neighboring plantation to Berkeley Castle, and the descendant of a famous admiral of Catesby Jones, whose portrait bears witness to a doughty aspect, and a warlike prowess.

Whoever in literature brings back truthfully scenes and people harmonizing with their environment, and measures the nature of the standards that given conditions might be expected to produce, does a service to the world. Mrs. Pryor has rendered such a service in her novel. The manner in which she recalls life at Berkeley Castle awakens in the memories of many readers a reminiscence of their own acknowledgment as to its realism. The office the drawing room, the dining room and last, but not least, the kitchen, bear a strong resemblance to those belonging to many another plantation of former years.

And the kindly, hospitable, honorable mistress and master, their friend, the colonel, and their daughters, full of the gaiety of youth and the ingenuousness of childhood, are types readily recognized, as belonging to a civilization in which older Virginians found the full flower of their development. The names in the book, the Pages, the Carringtons, Henry's Taylor and Newtons, are those universally known as belonging to State history, and are symbols of brave deeds and gallant courage, beauty and intelligence among men and women bearing them.

Stories of the Old South have abounded since its passing in 1865. But none have appeared that have been presented from a more intimate standpoint than this. Snatches of conversation, bits of old songs, descriptions of gay house parties, balls and German dances, the White Sulphur Springs, are among the features that render Mrs. Pryor's book charming.

romantic, and the book altogether is thoroughly pure and good.

"Zoe, the Dancer."
By Ida Wild, John Lane, The Bodley Head, New York. $1.50.
Zoe was a convent bred girl who, when she had her choice, went out into the world to meet life and destiny on her own behalf.

She became a famous dancer and, being cheerful and kindly natured, won the respect of those associated with her and a fair measure of individual happiness. But she made a mistake in marriage, and afterwards it stood in her way as a bar to all the natural joys and associations that all the lives of women. Fate cut the net that bound her at last and set her feet in the way of love.

The story is well written, with much humor and cleverness in its character sketching.

"Glamour."
By William Samuel Johnson, Harper & Bros., of New York.
A story of the imagination, with the glamour of Parisian life holding the reader's interest.

In a Parisian cafe, a New England American, John Dwight, by whom the story is told, is brought into touch with Sir Michael Burke, and the two become friends.

A cousin of Sir Michael, Golden Burke, is the heroine of the novel. Sir Michael, who is a hunchback to her, but she has no thought of him and is herself in love with John Dwight.

The novel is full of imagination and mystery and gives fascinating glimpses of Paris and its possibilities.

"Klaus Hirsch Haas."
By Gustav Frenssen, The Macmillan Company, of New York.
This story is primarily concerned with the story of man's fight for success in the business field. Klaus begins his career when he hires out as a stable-boy to a milk peddler. He mounts a step higher in his next position and continues to progress until, through a friend's help, he becomes the employee of a prosperous merchant.

The history of Hirsch's progression and development is a strong and consistent piece of work. The keen-eyed, sharp-witted business man, whose foresight saves the established firm of A. E. Eschen from bankruptcy, is the natural product of the forces which have been at work shaping his character from the time when, as a boy, he dreamed dreams and saw visions.

SEYMOUR SYCLE'S Shoe Shopping Monday

Here are two very smart spring styles—classy in every line—shoes that cannot be had in Richmond at any other store. They are on sale MONDAY ONLY at special prices in order to introduce them to those who care to be up-to-the-minute in fashionable footwear.

The Knickerbocker Pump | Black Satin Street Pump
Made on very smart last, broad bottom, flat heel, calf. Sold in New York and Boston shops at $7.00 a pair. For Monday only $5.00
This is a heavy sole pump, stylish to the last stitch, strongly made, and as dainty as possible. The best shops in other cities get $5.00 and $6.00. For Monday only, $4.00

I am also showing the largest and finest line of "PATRICIAN" Shoes for women I have ever carried $3.50 and $4.00.

SEYMOUR SYCLE, 11 West Broad

The book is specially valuable as presenting a realistic view of commercial and social conditions in Germany, which Gustav Frenssen is altogether familiar.

"The Professor's Mystery."
By Wells, Doubleday and Brian Hooker. The Bobbs-Merrill Company, of Indianapolis. $1.25.
The spirit in which the authors have written this novel is indicated in what Crosby, the hero, says to Margaret Faber: "Romance and adventure do not depend on time. They only depend on people. If you are the kind of person things happen to, you can have adventures on Fifth Avenue. If you are not, you may walk all through the 'Arabian Nights' and only feel bored and uncomfortable."

Both as a love and mystery story, the book is most interesting, and the solution, while often tantalizingly near in seeming, remains untold until the very last.

"Adventure."
By Jack London. The Macmillan Company, of New York.
This new story by Jack London deals with a unique situation in which a shipwrecked American girl, with her Tahitian attendant, discovers a white alone on the South Sea Island nearly exhausted with fever, and almost surrounded with several hundred mutinous cannibals.

The white man, who has been putting up a brave show to conceal his condition from the black multitude he is facing, gives up his struggle when the American girl arrives. She, cool, capable and resourceful, takes command of affairs, saves the white man's life and the plantation from being sold for debt.

The story and the title fit, there being a taut, gripping interest in incidents in the combat waged against apparent failure and the Solomon Islanders by the whites.

Joan Lackland is the modern type of vigorous American womanhood, and the white man, David Sheldon, is delineated with Mr. London's accustomed knowledge of the character of men.

"Alice of Astra."
By H. B. Marriott Watson. Little, Brown & Company, of Boston. $1.50.
The action of this story takes place in the little principality of Eisenburg, where nothing but the birth of an heir will prevent Prince Albrecht of Suabia, from being to the line of succession.

A woman is rescued from a burning coach in a railroad wreck and brought to the Castle of Walldorf, on the night when the grand duchess dies in giving birth to an heir.

There follows a tale of love and ambition, plot and counterplot, intrigue and revolution.

"How Leslie Loved."
By Anne Warner. Little, Brown & Company, of Boston. $1.25 net.
The chief character in this novel is a young American widow seeing life and enjoying herself in English country houses, in Germany and in Paris. Leslie is an ardent flirt and a shrewd observer withal. The book is really intended as a breezy satire on modern manners, or the lack of them.

"The Catholic Encyclopedia."
Vol. X Robert Appleton, of New York.
Several preceding volumes of this all-round encyclopaedia giving substantial evidence of intellectual, literary and scientific success on the part of its writers, have attracted to the new volume a number of brilliant and distinguished contributors, among them Professors De Wulf, of Louvain, Dierh, of Bordeaux, and Engelkeper, of Munster, Father Forbes-Leith, S. J., and Father Garesche, S. J., Canon Kemper, of Mechlin, Father Kleinschmidt, of Innsbruck, Holland, Mr. Maxwell Scott, Professor Senfelder, of Vienna, and Van Hookacker, of Louvain. The last six pages of Vol. X, are occupied by an article, written by Dr. Barry, on John Henry Newman, the great English ecclesiastical and controversialist, and one of the most successful educators of his century.

"A National Banking System."
By E. F. Schickel, Harper & Bros., of New York.
The author of this work, who has had wide experience in practical banking and given much study to financial matters, has written a book in favor of the branch-bank system, presenting his arguments, by contrasting conditions existing under the present system of banking with the possible benefits accruing from a branch-system.

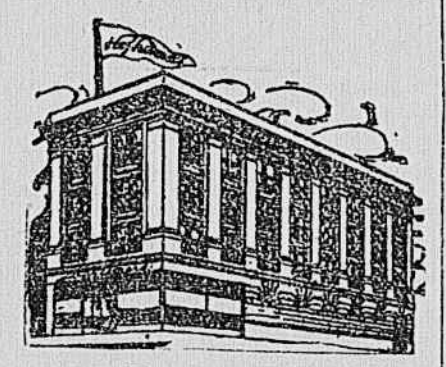

Mr. Eckhardt's book is built along constructive lines, for he explains how branch-banking, as a practical reality, might promote independence of important sections against the New York money power.

Literary Gossip.
Gunston Hall, a famous Virginia manor house, the former home of George Mason, standing about five miles from Mount Vernon, is now owned by Paul Keator, whose dramatization of Andre Castaigne's novel, "The Bill Toppet," is soon to be presented in London by Marie Tempest. Paul Keator's brother, Vaughan Keator, wrote "The Prigdigal Inn" at Gunston Hall and it was at the lodge on the estate

Ha! Ha! He! He!

That's the way to feel—EVERY ONE does that takes a CASCARET night BEFORE, when he looks at the fellow who didn't. For OVER-EATING and DRINKING nothing on Earth cleans you out as a CASCARET, naturally—easily, without that upset sick feeling. Don't neglect—at bed time—9 P.M. or 4 A.M.—no difference—you'll need it.

CASCARETS are a box for a week's treatment, all druggists. Biggest seller in the world. Million boxes a month.

New Location,
N. W. Corner Third and Broad.

Chickering
PIANOS.
Oldest in America. Best in the World.

Crane Piano Co.
Fifth and Grace Streets.

WANTED
Boys & Girls
Men & Women

HAVE YOU SEEN THE
New Method Gas Ranges
AT
Pettit & Co.'s?

Hammond
FLORES

"GREEN CASTLE"
Kitchen Cabinets will lessen kitchen labor. Try one. Sold by Rothert & Co.,
Fourth and Broad.

M. Goldstein
LADIES' TAILOR AND SUIT MANUFACTURER,
S. W. Corner Seventh and Franklin Streets, Opp. P. O.
Madison 5175. Monroe 103

Fonticello

that Paul Wistach wrote the dramatic version of this which has proved such a success.

Owen Wister is busy at Wallingford, Pennsylvania, putting the last touches on his new book, "Members of the Family," to be brought out in May. The book resembles "The Virginian" in character, Scipio Le Moyne being the leading character in this last novel.

Hones to Break Records.
Dayton, O., April 2.—Valentine Conway Allen, of Halifax county, and Miss Mary M. Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Armistead William Nelson, of Stafford county, were married at the home of the bride, Rev. Ivan M. Green performing the ceremony.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Beautiful EASTER
Greetings, Cards, Books, and Novelties

New clever ideas and designs artistically executed and finished in keeping with the sentiment of Eastertide. Also, Prayer Books and Standard Devotional Books in specially attractive bindings.

Presbyterian Bookstore,
212-214 North Sixth Street

Pompeian (Lucca) Olive Oil
Direct to you from our olive groves in Lucca.
The "First Press" from selected ripe olives alone is used in
POMPEIAN Lucca OLIVE OIL.
Best by Test and Taste.
Strictly full measure.
Richest and Best Flavor.
Distributed by
Owens & Minor Drug Co.,
Powers-Taylor Drug Co.,
Bodeker Drug Co.,
Spence-Nunnamaker Co.
Harvey Blair & Co.

THE POMPEIAN CO.
Washington, D. C.

Light, Sparkling Refreshing
No Pumping No Impurities
No Tanking No Stagnation
5 Gallons 25 Cents
BROAD ROCK HOLY LITHIA SPRINGS WATER
PHONE MONROE 477 OR 478
Guaranteed by Holy Lithia Springs Co., Inc., Richmond, Va., under Pure Food and Drug Act, June 30, 1906. Serial No. 30,533.